Trees help conserve soil and water. In open country, trees act as windbreaks and prevent the wind from blowing away top soil. Their roots prevent soil from being washed away by heavy rains. Tree roots also help store water in ground. In mountain regions, forests prevent sliding snow from causing avalanches. Forests also provide shelter for wild life and recreation areas for vacationists. Trees help preserve the balance of gases in the atmosphere. Tree's leaves absorb carbon dioxide from the air. They also provide oxygen and release it into the atmosphere. These two processes are necessary to man. He could not survive if the air had too much carbon dioxide or too little oxygen. Living trees are as valuable to man as are tree products because they help conserve natural resources.

Corruption, as we seen in India, is another example of putting the interest of oneself, and at best that of one's family, above that of the society. Society is relatively corruption free in the West. For instance, it is very difficult to bribe a police officer into avoiding a speeding ticket.

This is because of the individual's responsible behavior towards the community as a whole. On the contrary, in India, corruption, tax evasion, cheating and bribery have eaten into our vitals. for instance, contractors bribe officials, and construct low quality roads and bridges. The result is that society loses in the form of substandard defense equipment and infrastructure, and low-quality recruitment, just to name a few impediments. Unfortunately, this behavior is condoned by almost everyone.

Apathy in solving community matters has held us back from making progress, which is otherwise within our reach. We see serious problems around us but do not try to solve them. We behave as if the problems do not exist or is

This is the essence of Indian values and one of our key strengths. Our families act as a critical support mechanism for us. In fact, the credit to the success of Infosys goes, as much to the founders as to their families, for supporting them through the tough times. Unfortunately, our attitude towards family life is not reflected in our attitude towards community behaviour. From littering the streets to corruption to breaking of contractual obligations, we are apathetic to the common good. In the West - the U.S., Canada, Europe, Australia, New Zealand - individuals understand that they have to be responsible towards their community.

The primary difference between the West and US is that, there, people have a much better societal orientation. They care more for the society than we do. Further, they generally sacrifice more for the society than us. Quality of life is enhanced because of this. This is where we need to learn from the West.

SECTION-B

Note: Objective/ Completion type questions. All questions are compulsory. (6x1=6)

Trees help conserve soil and water. In open country, trees act as windbreaks and prevent the wind from blowing away top soil. Their roots prevent soil from being washed away by heavy rains. Tree roots also help store water in ground. In mountain regions, forests prevent sliding snow from causing avalanches. Forests also provide shelter for wild life and recreation areas for vacationists. Trees help preserve the balance of gases in the atmosphere. Tree's leaves absorb carbon dioxide from the air. They also provide oxygen and release it into the atmosphere. These two processes are necessary to man. He could not survive if the air had too much carbon dioxide or too little oxygen. Living trees are as valuable to man as are tree products because they help conserve natural resources.
